Education of the Negro. MEASURES PROPOSED BY CITIZENS OF OXFORD, MISS.

That the time has arrived when some measures stould be adopted by the fouthern people themselves to provide the ways and means of educating the freedmen, is a conviction to which we have been led by the following considerations:

1. This people are noted through the contract of the con

following considerations:

1. This people are now thrown upon their own resources, in a state of freedom, for which they are to a sources, in a state of freedom, for which the coverage certain extent unprepared.

2. They consider us, their former owners, to be now, as we have always been, their natural guardians and as we have always been, their natural guardials and their best friends.

3. It is our interest, as well as our duty, to diffuse the blessings of education as widely as possible among all classes of people in our country.

4. If it ever was good policy to keep them ignorant, it certainly is no longer so, but the very reverse.

5. The right of suffage will, in all probability, be given to this people at some future day.

6. Ignorant voters are the ourse of our country.

7. If we do not teach them some one clee will, and wheever thus benefits them will win an influence over them which will control their votes.

8. If we perform this service them we shall secure their identification with us in promoting all our interests.

So much for policy and interest—the least elevated arm of the argument. Let us look at the subject in its noral bearings.

1. The Church is the light of the world; it is therefore found to illuminate the surrounding region. There is no special injunction to enlighten the white race only, but we are to "preach the gospel to every creature." Search the Scripture," is the command not addressed. "Search the Scripture," is the command not addressed to our race culy, but to mankind. God "commandeth all nun everywhere to repent." We are inquestionably responsible to God for our influence and ability to do good. "The peor ye have always with you" is the declaration of our Saviour, and by his providential arrangement we are constantly reminded that we live not for ourselves alone; the colored race are now emphitisally "the range impact the weodie."

for ourselves alone; the colored race are now emphatically "the poor smoog the people."

2. But do we not owe it to them as a debt of gratitude?
We remember how they, for our sakes, endured heat and old, wet and dry, summer and winter, cultivating our fields, ministering to our comforts, promoting our wealth, improving the country, and actually advancing civilization, by their physical labor; attending upon us at all stages of our lives, nursing our children, waiting upon the sick, going with us to the burial of our dead,
and mingling their tears with ours in the open grave.
Can it be that all this is forgotten? And is it not a mail return for all this that we are asked to make, when it is proposed that we shall give them that modicum of instruction which will enable them to read, or at least to know the way of life eternal? It is under the pressure of these and similar considerations that a few of the citizens of Oxford have been moved to take the initiative in this enterprise.

pressure of these and similar considerations that a few of the citizens of Orford have been moved to take the initiative in this enterprise.

We propose the establishment of a Sabbath School for the oral instruction of the colored people, as well as to teach them to read. We have organized this school with more than one hundred pupils and twelve teachers! Regular presching also is provided for them by the resident ministers of the different churches of Oxford. We desire to enlist in this work all our fellow-citizens, as there is room enough for all, and work enough for all. In such a work as this, no doubt, the conviction of duty and the command of God should be anflucient motives to acteate us. But while we would not plead for the anthority of great names as a sanction to our course, or an inducement to others, at the same time we rejoice to find, that in many parts of the South, the prominent citizens and official dignitaries are actively moving in this matter. In South Carolina, Gov. Orr and the first citizens of Charleston are urging the establishment of the common school system for the freedmen. In Alabams, ex-Governor Moore and ex-Congressman Curry are engaging in the movement, and elsewhere in Mississippi, this field of instor is occupied by some of the most distinguished of our citizens. All this shows that the influence is at work which is to puting general operation at effective system of instruction for this people, in sacred and in secular knowledge. Let us, therefore, engage in the work in carnest, according as God shall open the way for us and as you consider your duty in connection with the work, we ask you to decide upon that course that you will probably approve when the light of a coming eternity shall be alsed upon the subject.

To the Edilor of the New York Tribune

To the Edilor of the New York Tribune.

I Sin: I saw an article in your paper last Friday, stating that I sake at the Senate to confirm Mr. Fleurot's nomination, and on that account he was not appointed. Now, air, permit me to say that I never in my life asked the Government of the United States for anything for my account the was not save who is only an account of the United States for anything for my account of the United States for anything for my account of your lattice, the most fearful abuses and calumnies; but I think now it is time to put a stop to them. I do not trouble myself about collities or politicians, or editors, or any such unkind, unfeeling people; yet, I have suffered greatly by them.

What have I done against you editors, managers, etc., that I should be hunted down like a wild deer, on account of your feelings towards The Heraid? Abuse the editor if you like, perhaps he deserves it, but my aim has ever been to caim and paoff all violent feelings.

Yours respectfully.

HENBIETTA At SENNETT.

FORT WASHINGTON, June 21, 1886.

nmy.—General Beneder, Commander-in-Chief of the Northern Army of Austria, recently addressed an order of the day to his troops, the chief passage of which is the following:

I prohibit in the most formal and most express manner, officers and other persons belonging to the troops, military (seiabilishments, or equipages, furnithing articles to newspapers, either directly or indirectly. It is equally contrary to the interests of the army that or indirectly or indirectly. It is equally contrary to the interests of the army that or indirectly interpreted, should be permitted in newspaper correspondence or articles, that complaints should be made in these publications of any temporary deficiency, as our adversaries may deduce therefrom the nature of the attitude, spirit, equipment, &c., of the army. I shall in no way tolerate, either at headquarters, or with other commanders or corps, paid or unpaid newspaper correspondents, either divid or unpaid newspaper correspondents or an elegant or unpaid newspaper correspondents of the dividence of the commanders of corps, paid or unpaid newspaper correspondents by all the inemas in military courts.

PRODUCE MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Flour, &c.—The inquiry for western and state flour is light, and prices are again 5 to 100 lower. The relies are 5100 bbls at $640 to 7 for supplying atticles destined for the fournals unless he has received a mission so to do from the grown and the first of the

THE JEWISH CONFEDERATE DEAD .- The Richmond Examiner, in speaking of the Hebrew Ladies' Memorial Association of that city, says:

Association of that city, says:

In another column we give an account of the organization of the Hebrew Ladies' Memorial Association, a full list of life by-lisws and its pathetic and elegant appeal to the laradities of the South. We do this with the greatest pleasure, for we fully recognize the value of the aid given to the lost Confe erate cause by this brave, intelligent and thrifty class of our people. We do, not know that we do right to call them a class—we should rather call them a religious denomination.

From the earliest ages the Israelites were noted for the bravery of their men and the beauty of their women, and Josephus records instances of heroic daring and enduran e ou the part of his countrymen, that are scarcely paralleled in the annals of any other people. During our late struggle the race did not bely its history. It turnt had its sons to our ranks, and in the shock of battle, shoulder to shoulder with our dearest, they met a soldier's death. All honor to them. Let them not be forgotten All honor, too, to the Hebrew ladies who have formed themselves into this Memorial Association. May their labor of love be crowned with the success it so righty deserves. Association. May their labor of the success it so richly deserves.

A CAT STORY.—The Wolf torough, N. H., News tells the following story: "It is an old saying that cats love fish, but will not wet their feet to catch them. However correct this reflection upon the race may be in general, it is not true of a certain puss in this village. Mr. George H. Wiggin has a cat that catches her own sieh. A day or two since she tugged brayely from the lake is big horned pout. The fish was alive, and puss had evidently been under water, and the exhausted condition of the cat showed that the contest had be en a severe one. We are told this is not the only instance in which puss has furnished herself and family with a mess of fish from the lake."

Palmerston has been "put in marble," which prompts the Pall Mail Gazette to photograph the late Premier as follows: "In the House, whether listening, speaking, or sleeping; or out of the House, whether on horse-back, or at a public dinner, or at a levee, or on the hustings, Lord Palmerston was ever one and the same, with a clearly deflued personality embodied in a countenance and a form highly significant of the inner man, but yet little fitted to be expressed in marble with that repose, harmony, and self-contain d power without which no statue can ever be what a statue ought to be."

A Western Girl.—A lady in Concordia, Illinois, was very sich a few days ago, and her physician decided that squirrel soup was necessary for her. A request was at once sent to all the men in town to shoot a squirrel for her, but there was not a man to be found in the town willing to do this simple act for an invalid. A country girl, who happened to be in the neighborhood, heard of it, shouldered a rifle, and returned in about half an hour with four squirrels—each shat through the island.
